JAMES BARTON DESIGN-BUILD WINS FOUR NATIONAL PROFESSIONAL BUILDER'S AWARDS

Four area homes remodeled by James Barton Design-Build were recently named winners of five major awards by the Professional Builder's Council, a national organization located in Chantilly, Virginia, established to promote professionalism, quality and integrity in the building industry.

An award for Excellence in Design went to the home of John and Amy Gilje of Rosemount. The James Barton Design-Build Spring Showcase Home for 2008, this complete home remodel turned a modest three bedroom home into a large four-bedroom family home.

Diamond Awards went to the spacious new kitchen of John and Celia Guillemette in Rosemount, Ron and Barb Osborn's three-story addition in Burnsville, and the "gorgeous and green" total remodel of Bill and Jill Kilzer's home in Apple Valley. The judges were so taken with the Kilzer's addition that they created a special "Judges' Choice Award" just for that project.

"Awards are really more for our home owners then for us," says James Madsen, president of James Barton -Design Build. "They bring their dreams to us, put their trust in us and foot the bills. When one of their homes is judged an award-winner, we celebrate right along with them."
